

The MCEC Innovations in Learning Expo 2010

Join us for an exciting and new presentation opportunity at our 2010 MCEC Annual Conference: The MCEC Innovations in Learning Expo, scheduled on Wednesday, July 21, 2010, from 9:00 am – 12:30 pm. The Expo will take place as part of the 2010 MCEC Conference, Today's Children, Tomorrow's Leaders, scheduled at the Gaylord National Hotel and Convention Center located just minutes outside Washington, DC on July 21-23, 2010. We expect a capacity crowd of more than 1200 conference attendees including military representatives and leaders, educators, military family members, and corporate leaders who support the educational needs of military children worldwide.

The MCEC Innovations in Learning Expo is designed to enhance the learning experiences of military children, while providing educators, military families, and military program leaders with professional development and learning opportunities. The Expo will offer a place to share new and exciting ideas while providing our attendees the chance to discuss innovations with industry representatives, observe demonstrations, and experience quality hands-on learning, allowing them to gain the actual skills they can apply to advance learning.

The MCEC is looking for exhibitors who will introduce next-step trends in learning to our conference attendees. While increasing the perspectives of learning in a virtual world, we are looking for exhibitors who will focus on new innovations including, podcasting, social networking, games and play, blogs and wikis, new collaboration technologies, video, innovative hardware, mobile learning, and instructional games, to name just a few.

At your earliest convenience please contact Carrie Garlick, our Conference Coordinator, at 254-953-1923 or Carrie.Garlick@MilitaryChild.org for further information about our expo and annual conference. In the meantime please visit our website, www.militarychild.org, for further information on the MCEC and the initiatives and programs we offer. We hope you find The MCEC Innovations in Learning Expo an exciting opportunity to showcase the technologies your organization can offer military children in an educational setting.
