MILITARY CHILDREN'S ART ON DISPLAY AT THE KILLEEN CIVIC AND CONVENTION CENTER

Autobiographical photos and drawings convey the "Art of Being a Military Child"

WHAT: Visitors to the Killeen Civic and Convention Center this month will be treated to an array of art generated by military children in kindergarten through 12th grade. The front hallway display is part of the Military Child Education Coalition's "Art of Being a Military Child" exhibit, which opened at the organization's Annual Conference in July 2007.

The exhibit features art work that conveys the unique, personal experiences of United States military-connected children around the world. These experiences include deployment, frequent school transitions and pride – in being a military child and in their military-connected parents and siblings.

WHEN: Weekdays in November; beginning Tuesday, November 6

WHERE: Killeen Civic and Convention Center
Front Hallway
3601 South WS Young Drive
Killeen, Texas 76543
254-501-3888

About the MCEC™

The Military Child Education Coalition™ (MCEC™) is a 501(c)(3) non-profit, worldwide organization. A model of positive leadership and advocacy, the MCEC™'s work is focused on ensuring quality educational opportunities for all military children affected by mobility, family separation, and transition. Their focus is on all military-connected children, including Active Duty, National Guard, and Reserves. The MCEC™ seeks to include all military installations, their supporting schools, concerned organizations, and caring individuals.
