

COL Keith Lemmon, M.D., FAAP

COL Lemmon is a Pediatric and Adolescent Medicine Specialist currently serving as the Chief of Soldier and Community Health at Madigan Army Medical Center on Joint Base Lewis McChord. He has been deployed for 22 months over his 21 year Army medical career including Kuwait, Iraq, and Afghanistan. COL Lemmon is a Clinical Professor of Pediatrics at the University Of Washington School Of Medicine. He has multiple publications and speaks nationally on military youth culture and the effects of deployment on military children and adolescents. Dr. Lemmon has 3 military children, Charlie 21, Grace 17, and Gabrielle 15, who have been serving alongside him through his career.